Crisscrossed

Although he has been dead for decades, Hitchcock will still kick your ass. His Classic film, "Strangers on a Train" will drive you insane. A must see!

California Selected for 2002 Road Rally, Authorities Say

LOS ANGELES-The State of California has been chosen by the Road Rally High Command to be the site for the 2002 Road Rally. To be more specific, Southern California is the site. (Northern California, where the 2001 Road Rally was held, has been regarded by its citizens for many years to be a separate and distinct state). The Rally has also been held in such exotic places as Texas, Florida, and Mexico (the unofficial 51st state).

"Southern California is a great place for the Road Rally!" declares one of this year's hosts. "It's got heat, smog, crowded freeways, deserts, you name it. I'm so excited, I can hardly contain myself! Don't forget the insect repellent!"

Another unnamed source was quoted as saying, "The party house is so bitchen', man. There's even a place to deposit litter here." Thanks to a modest price increase, Rallyers can expect first class enjoyment this year as they suffer through the torturous gauntlet of whacked out clue sites and the ever-ominous possibility of being DFL. You don't need a PhD in Rocket Surgery from an expensive University to figure out all the clues, but it wouldn't hurt. Some knuckleheads come in first stoned

Theme Announced by Officials

The 2002 Road Rally theme this year is "Films of Hitchcock". Viewing the films is not a prerequisite, but it makes the whole experience much more enjoyable.

"The Rally participant feels as if he or she is part of the movie and experiences a certain bonding with his or her comrades and a sense of closure with any suppressed emotions brought upon by a childhood trauma and/or anal retentive parents" explains noted psychobabblist Dr. Jesus H. Hellman. Another theory by noted party animal Jay "Sweetbeans" Hughey, suggests that you "Just have a ball, dude."

Liquid Fun Expected, Claim Hosts

PARTY HOUSE-Participants in this year's Rally are reminded to bring along a bathing suit, inflatable toys, and any other waterside items you may require. Pass the tanning butter!

It may come as a severe disappointment to some participants, but there will be no golf, tennis, or tobogganing scheduled for this year's roster of Rally activities. Despite the traditional "anything goes" attitude of Rally recreation in the past, the omission of certain sports by the hosts was met with general indifference. The prevailing wisdom assumes everyone will be "too trashed to give a shit", according to a Rally host who refused to reveal his identity. "If you don't like it, take us to court." he declared with drunken defiance.

Editor's Note

You must now go across the street, eat lunch and get your party animal. This is MANDATORY of all teams. Your receipt must be turned in when you finish or serious points will be deducted.
